Breakfast Hour

Week 1 - Setting Up Breakfast-Hour Repo

By: Kelly Slatery
Adapted By: Katie Sylvia

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

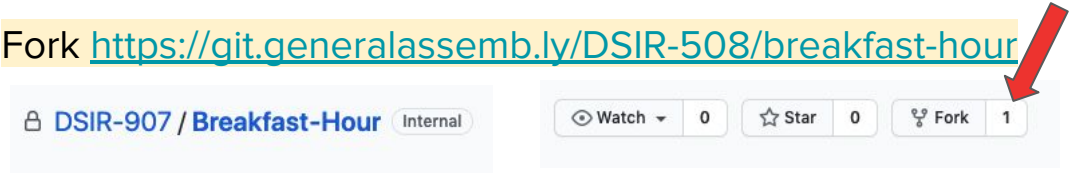

GitHub Flow

Step-by-Step Guide

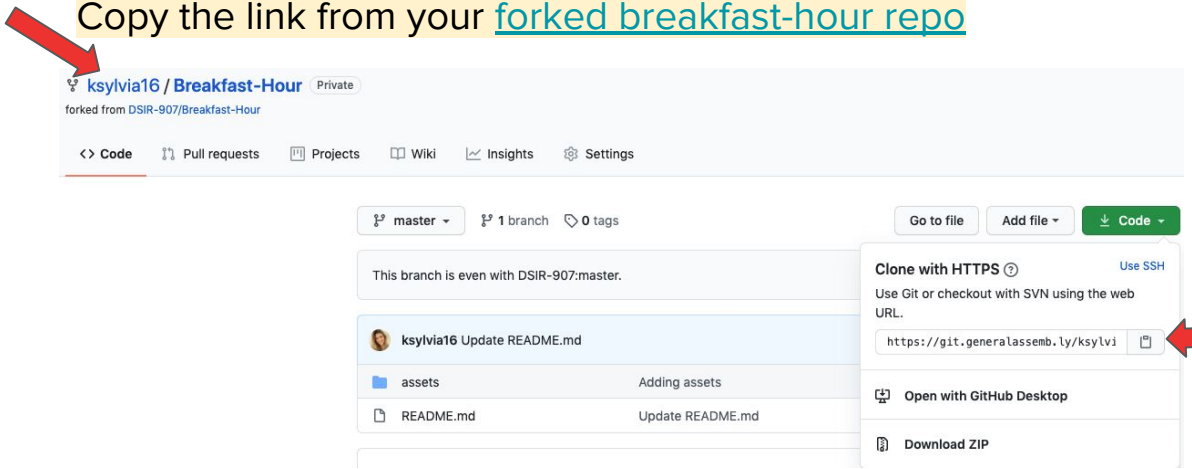

1. [In DSIR-508 GitHub]

   Fork https://git.generalassemb.ly/DSIR-508/breakfast-hour

2. [In YOUR GitHub]

   Copy the link from your forked breakfast-hour repo

We will refer to this as your personal repo link!

Step-by-Step Guide

3. [In Terminal] cd DSI-508 (Whatever you called the folder with your Lessons and Labs folder.)

4. [In Terminal] git clone [your personal repo link]

5. [In Terminal] cd breakfast-hour

6. [In Terminal - Quick Check] git remote -v (You SHOULD get the output below)

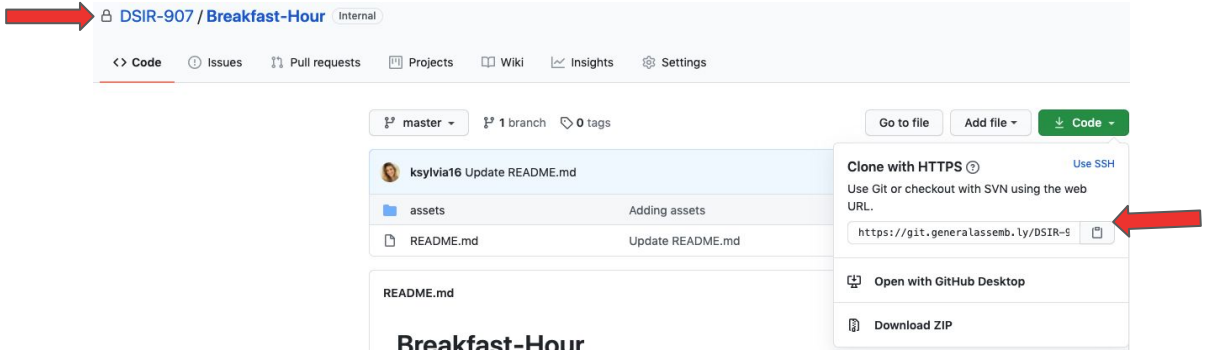

```
origin    git@git.generalassemb.ly:[your-name]/Breakfast-Hour.git (fetch) origin    git@git.generalassemb.ly:[your-name]/Breakfast-Hour.git (push)
```

Give me a thumbs up in Slack if you have made it this far!

We'll wait a few minutes, though if you are running into issues I have flex time from 3pm-5pm!

Step-by-Step Guide

6. [In Terminal] git remote add upstream [DSIR-508 clone link]

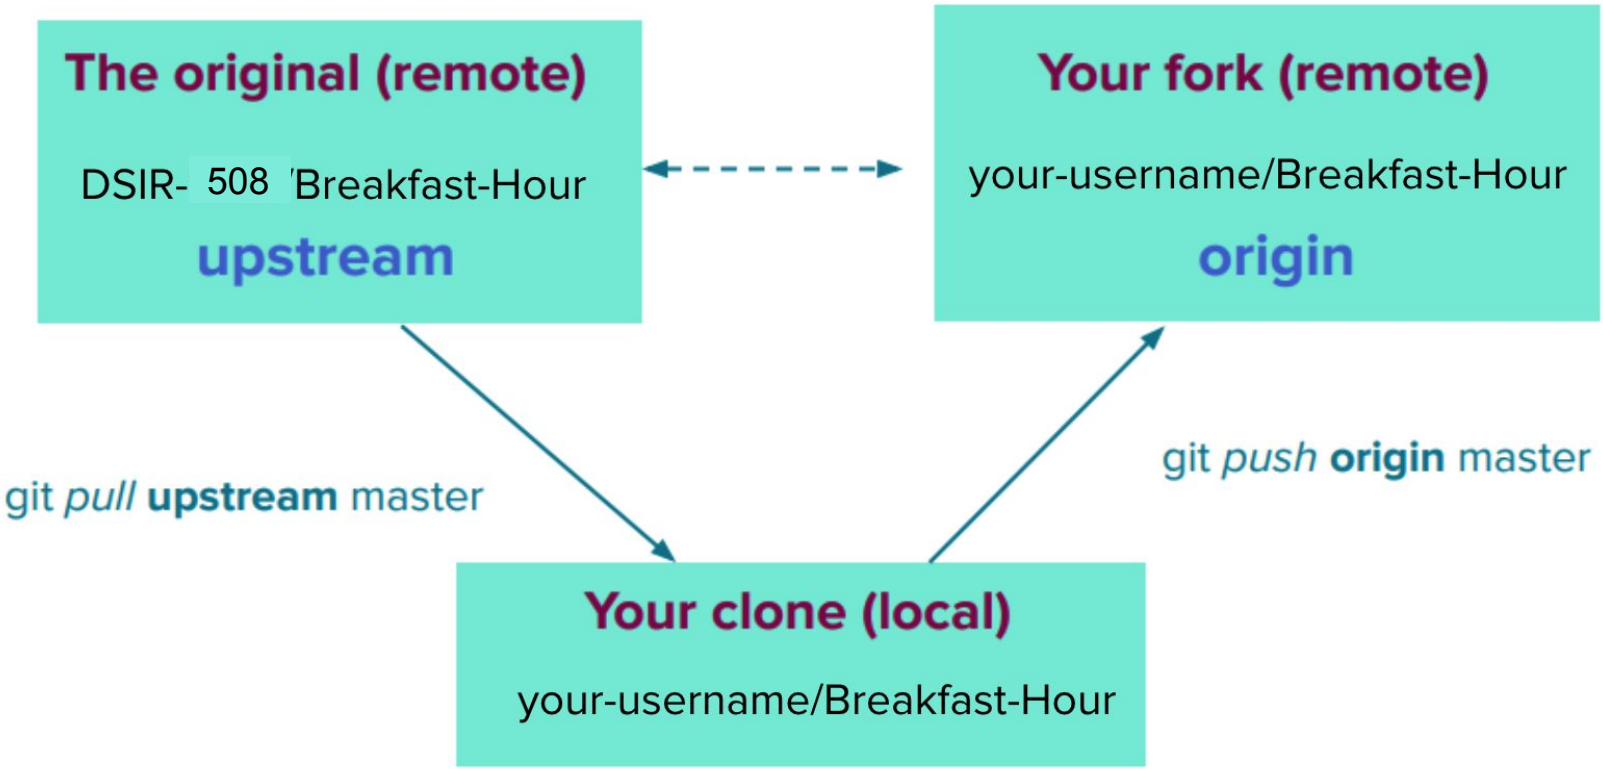

7. [In Terminal - Quick Check] git remote -v (You SHOULD get the output below)

```
origin    git@git.generalassemb.ly:[your-name]/Breakfast-Hour.git (fetch)
origin    git@git.generalassemb.ly:[your-name]/Breakfast-Hour.git (push) upstream  git@git.generalassemb.ly:DSIR-508/Breakfast-Hour.git (fetch) upstream  git@git.generalassemb.ly:DSIR-508/Breakfast-Hour.git (push)
```

Give me a thumbs up in Slack if you have made it this far!

You have successfully set up your repo!

So... now what?

Reminders:

1. ALWAYS rename the notebook before pushing your changes

2. ALWAYS push your local changes to your fork BEFORE pulling

```
git push origin main
```

3. THEN the next day, you can pull our changes/updates from the original DSIR-508/breakfast-hour

```
git fetch upstream
```

```
git merge upstream/main
```

Practice

Let’s test this together!

- In Jupyter Lab open your Breakfast-Hour repo.

- Navigate to `01_week` and open `repo_test.ipynb`

- Follow instructions and test pushing your updates up to the master!

GA